“I look forward to meeting you and helping you achieve your goals” Kimberly Cockerham, MD
Eyelid Anatomy

- There are two eyelid muscles that open the eye:
  - Levator muscle
  - Mueller’s muscle
- When one or both are weak – your eyelid droops
- When you have too much skin or fat your eyelid can also droop
- The lower eyelid can roll in or out or form eye bags
Insurance will pay for eyelid problems that interfere with your vision

Excess skin

Weak muscle

Eyelid rolling in or out

Eyelid that can’t close

Eyelid cancers and biopsies of suspicious lesions

Tear drainage problems

Floppy eyelids from sleep apnea
